2013 JUNIOR FACULTY DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

A PROGRAM OF THE BUREAU OF EDUCATIONAL AND CULTURAL AFFAIRS OF THE UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF STATE

Thank you for your interest in the Junior Faculty Development Program.

For more than half a century, the people of the United States have supported international educational and cultural exchange programs as an investment in global understanding and peace. Such exchange programs have a long track record of bringing future leaders from around the world to the United States—and of giving talented young Americans invaluable experiences and insights abroad.

The Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs (ECA) of the U.S. Department of State is responsible for the management and oversight of many of the U.S. government's international exchanges. Underlying the role of exchanges in U.S. foreign policy is the belief that mutual understanding is of vital importance in an increasingly interdependent world, and that person-to-person exchange and training is the most effective way to promote mutual understanding. The exchange of persons and perspectives is essential to the promotion of democracy, economic prosperity, international cooperation, peace and security around the world.

The Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs has initiated the award of a cooperative agreement to American Councils for International Education: ACTR/ACCELS to conduct a merit-based competition to recruit, select, place, and support Fellows throughout the program. American Councils provides follow-on activities for program alumni to continue fostering the development of democratic systems and market economies after program participants return home.

JUNIOR FACULTY DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

A PROGRAM OF THE BUREAU OF EDUCATIONAL AND CULTURAL AFFAIRS OF THE UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF STATE

Program Description and Administration:

The Government of the United States of America is pleased to announce the open competition for the Junior Faculty Development Program (JFDP) for the 2013 spring semester. The JFDP is sponsored by the Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs (ECA) of the United States Department of State. American Councils for International Education: ACTR/ACCELS, an American non-profit, non-governmental organization, under a cooperative agreement with ECA, administers the JFDP and oversees each participant's successful completion of the program. The United States Congress annually appropriates funds to finance the JFDP, and authorizes the Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs to oversee these funds.

The primary and distinct goal of the JFDP is to provide university instructors from Albania, Armenia, Azerbaijan, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Croatia, Georgia, Kazakhstan, Kosovo, Kyrgyzstan, Macedonia, Montenegro, Serbia, Tajikistan, and Turkmenistan with opportunities to engage in curriculum development and explore alternative teaching methodologies, expand their knowledge in their fields of study and gather new teaching materials and resources. Participants in JFDP are also encouraged to forge relationships with U.S. host institutions and their home universities in order to support ongoing contact and collaboration. Throughout their stay in the United States, JFDP Fellows observe courses, attend academic conferences, and work closely with faculty mentors from U.S. host institution to outline new courses and may be invited to present a lecture or co-teach classes at a U.S. host institution. Fellows will also serve as cultural resources, sharing information about their home countries with U.S. faculty, students, and community members. Fellows do not earn academic degrees through the JFDP, and must return to their home countries after completing the program.

The JFDP Fellowship consists of:

- The Pre-Program period – from the time of fellowship notification in the JFDP Fellow's home country through the Orientation in the United States in January 2013.
- The On-Program period – at the U.S. host institution for the spring 2013 semester. Each JFDP Fellow will spend a total of five (5) months (January-May 2013) in the United States. American Councils is responsible for placing Fellows at U.S. host institutions and for providing logistical support for the Fellows throughout their stay in the United States.
- The Post-Program period – after departure from the U.S., JFDP Fellows have expectations for continued cooperative activities with their U.S. host institutions, for at least the six months following the end of the On-Program period. JFDP Fellows who fulfill the expectations for Post-Program activities are awarded Alumni status with unique benefits and access to professional resources.

The entire program structure is intended to work toward the overall program goals by supporting JFDP Fellows in their endeavors to achieve their individual goals which are proposed in this application.

Pre-Program Responsibilities and Expectations:

Selected Fellows are required to attend a two-day Pre-Departure Orientation (PDO) in their home countries in November/December 2012, and a two-day Orientation in the U.S. in early January 2013. During both events, Fellows are introduced to program policies and support mechanisms, and provided information to prepare for On-Program activities and adjusting to life in the U.S. Fellows are also guided through the Fellowship Activity Plan which they will be expected to complete in consultation with their home and host institutions.

On-Program Responsibilities and Expectations:

Fellows are expected to attend host institution courses that meet the goals proposed in this application. The goals described in the Statement of Purpose are used to match Fellows to relevant academic programs at accredited U.S. colleges or universities. Fellows are expected to complete assignments and exams for the courses attended, according to the preferences of the course instructors. Besides attending courses, Fellows are expected to execute specific plans for analyzing the U.S. higher education system, and making critical comparisons to their home institutions. Fellows are expected to deliver guest lectures and cultural presentations at their U.S. host institutions, and conduct service activities in the surrounding communities. Research is not a primary goal of JFDP, however, for the purposes of increasing the knowledge base in the academic discipline, and for gathering new curricular content and teaching resources, it is expected that some research activity is necessary. Fellows are expected to participate in both professional networking and social engagement activities at their U.S. host institutions, surrounding communities, and across the United States, for the purpose of academic, professional, and cross-cultural exchanges. Such activities include attending professional meetings and conferences, joining professional and academic associations or societies, and participating in extracurricular campus clubs. Collaborating with U.S. host faculty to plan and develop writing, research, exchange, or linkage projects is a critical aspect of On-Program activities.

Post-Program Activities:

During the six months following the On-Program period, JFDP Fellows are expected to conduct Post-Program activities in cooperation with U.S. host coordinators and faculty advisors. During the On-Program phase, Fellows will define, develop, and plan three Post-Program activities which would meet fellowship goals and further cooperative activities with U.S. host counterparts. Examples of such activities include:

- Organizing virtual (on-line) lecture series for students in the U.S. and the Fellows' home country;
- Establishing a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU), or other type of linkage project between the home institution and U.S. host institution, such as facilitating in-person or virtual student exchanges;
- Implementing a new or revised course at the home institution;
- Conducting a student course evaluation and sharing the results of student feedback;
- Integrating new teaching methodologies in courses taught at the home institution;
- Conducting training in academic skills and integrity issues, such as writing standards, plagiarism, research methods, and honor code systems; and,
- Leading home institution students and colleagues in community service activities.

Approximately six months after the close of the On-Program period, Fellows will be asked to submit a report of Post-Program activities as they had proposed in their Fellowship activity plans. JFDP Fellows who fulfill the expectations for Post-Program activities are awarded Alumni status with unique benefits and access to professional resources. Alumni status is further maintained through fulfillment of the two-year home residency requirement according to J-1 Visa regulations. Alumni status then continues ad infinitum.

Through all fellowship stages, JFDP Fellows hold the ultimate responsibility for maintaining good academic standing through appropriate fellowship conduct. JFDP Fellows are expected to:

- be professionally mature, receptive, and attentive in their approach to new information provided;
- earnestly seek to improve current skill sets and knowledge bases;
- make sincere efforts in setting out to accomplish the objectives proposed in this application;
- carefully read program policy documents to understand program rules, expectations for assignments and activities, and limitations;
- accept responsibility for awareness of program rules and procedures;
- ask questions about anything not clear, or about which further support is needed.

A. GENERAL OVERVIEW

I. PROGRAM ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS

Participants in the JFDP must:

- be a citizen of one of the following countries within these three regions: (Caucasus) Armenia, Azerbaijan, Georgia; (Central Asia) Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan; or, (Southeast Europe) Albania, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Croatia, Kosovo, Macedonia, Montenegro, Serbia.
- currently reside and work in the region of his/her country of citizenship;
- be a faculty member currently teaching full-time at an institution of higher education in their home country and have at least two (2) years of full-time professional experience as a university lecturer or administrator at the time of application (time spent working at a university while simultaneously working towards your first higher education degree does not count towards the two year requirement);
- be highly proficient in written and oral English (be able to pass an English proficiency exam, and be able to participate in an English language interview);
- return to their home country after completing the program;
- be able to begin the JFDP in the United States in January 2013 (participants will not be allowed to defer until a later date); and,
- be able to receive and maintain a U.S. exchange visa (J-1) required for this program.

Individuals will not be eligible to participate in the program if they are:

- U.S. citizens or permanent residents of the United States;
- Currently participating in academic, training or research programs in the United States;
- Currently residing or working outside of the region of the country of citizenship.
- Individuals who have participated in an exchange visitor program sponsored or funded by the U.S. government (e.g., U.S. Department of State, Public Affairs Sections at U.S. Embassies, U.S. Agency for International Development or other U.S. government agencies) for a period of more than six weeks and who have not fulfilled their two-year home residency requirement by the time of application;
- Individuals who have applied for U.S. permanent residency in the past three years;
- Local employees of American Councils and the U.S. missions abroad who work for the U.S. Department of State or USAID are ineligible for grants during the period of their employment and for one year following the termination of employment;
- Immediate families (i.e., spouses and dependent children) of American Councils, USAID, and U.S. Department of State employees for a period of one year following the termination of such employment. This provision does not disqualify self-supporting members of families who live apart from their parents;
- Persons arrested for, charged with, or convicted of a crime (excluding minor traffic violations).

II. SELECTION PROCESS AND CRITERIA

Participants in the JFDP will be selected through an open, merit-based competition. All written applications to the JFDP (including the statement of purpose) will be read and evaluated by both an American scholar and a scholar from the applicant's home country who are experts in a particular field of study. Please note that all references to an applicant's name will be removed from all the materials submitted to the evaluators in order to ensure the anonymity of the applicant, and the objectivity of the readers. All applications and statements of purpose will be judged on the following criteria:

- Clarity of thought and presentation

- Knowledge of the field of study and demonstrated commitment to educational principles
- Potential for leadership and change at the applicant's home institution
- Potential for initiating contact and exchange between the applicant's home institution and a U.S. institution

Applicants whose written applications receive a successful evaluation will be invited to participate in an English language interview. The interviews will be conducted by a joint US-local scholar interview team. Applicants must be present in their country at the time of the interview. Representatives of American Councils and the U.S. Embassy Public Affairs Section, may also observe and participate in the interviews. The interview gives the selection committee the opportunity to meet the candidate in person, and to learn why the candidate would like to participate in the JFDP. At the time of the interview, each candidate will also take an Institutional TOEFL in order to provide a basic assessment of the person's English language skills. All travel expenses to the interview, the cost of the Institutional TOEFL, and all costs associated with the intensive English language training will be funded as part of the program.

A committee in Washington, D.C., consisting of representatives of the U.S. Department of State, American Councils, and U.S. host institutions who are familiar with the JFDP will decide who will become a finalist in the JFDP based upon each candidate's written application and interview results.

III. TO APPLY TO THE JFDP

A complete application to the JFDP consists of one original and two (2) copies of the following:

1. Completed application form (your answers to questions 1-27);
2. Statement of Purpose written in English AND in native language;
3. Two (2) recommendations, using the forms provided. One recommendation must be from a supervisor. If a recommendation is written in the native language, it must be accompanied by an English translation;
4. Curriculum Vitae in ENGLISH ONLY, observing the template provided.

IV. IMPORTANT THINGS TO NOTE

- Applicants are advised that English proficiency is an important factor in the selection competition. It is highly recommended for candidates to evaluate proficiency before applying.
- Refer to the supplemental documents (available at www.jfdp.org) that provide descriptions of academic fields, and U.S. equivalents for professional titles and academic degrees.
- Notarization of documents is NOT required.
- Participation in ALL program events is mandatory for all JFDP Fellows.
- No application documents will be returned to the applicant either during or after the competition. All application evaluations will remain confidential.
- While there is no strict age limit, strong preference will be given to applicants who are in the early stages of their careers.
- Applicants must be living in their home country at the time of the interview. Interviews cannot be given over the phone. American Councils will not pay for travel of applicants not in their home country.
- The JFDP reserves the right to verify all information given in the application. In the event that there is a discrepancy or information is found to be false, the application will immediately be declared invalid and the applicant ineligible.
- Dependents of finalists in the JFDP may NOT join Fellows in the United States until March 1, 2013, and must depart no later than May 1, 2013. A "dependent" is defined as a spouse or an unmarried child under the age of 21. JFDP Fellows who wish to invite their dependents to the United States on a J-2 visa must receive prior approval from American Councils. Approval to invite dependents will be granted to those Fellows who can demonstrate:
 1. They are financially able to support their dependents in the United States;
 2. They have purchased adequate health insurance for their dependents; and
 3. They have obtained written testimony from their host institution that they are successfully engaged in the JFDP and in their host institution community.

Note: Only the consular officer at the U.S. Embassy in your country has the right to approve or deny visa requests.

B. APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

I. APPLICATION FORM (ITEMS 1-27)

The application form MUST be in English (except where otherwise noted), and should be typewritten. If you use additional pages of paper to answer a question, write the question, its corresponding number, and your name at the top of each additional page. Please attach a recent photograph of yourself where indicated on page 1. All questions must be answered for your application to be complete. Important: The question in Item 13, "Field of Study to which you are applying," requires reference to a supplemental document that describes eligible fields in the humanities and social sciences. Please review this document carefully to assess the appropriate equivalent of your academic discipline in the United States. This supplement can be downloaded from the JFDP Web site (www.jfdp.org).

II. STATEMENT OF PURPOSE (Items 28-29)

The Statement of Purpose portion of your application is comprised of your answers to the questions in Items 28 and 29, with one version of your answers written in English and another version translated to your native language. Both language versions should NOT be combined in the same page space. Both versions must be word-processed on a computer or typed on a typewriter, using single-space paragraph formatting and an 11- or 12-point font size. Each language version should comprise at least 500 words and not exceed three (3) pages in length, and any pages or essays beyond the 3-page limit will not be considered during the selection process. The Statement of Purpose outlines your work plan while in the U.S. and is used to determine your host institution placement. Your answers will be read by the selection committee members and, if you are selected, by the U.S. host institutions that will consider hosting you. Finalists accepted on the Program will be expected to complete the work outlined in the Statement of Purpose.

III. CURRICULUM VITAE

The Curriculum Vitae (CV) must be typed in English, using the template provided in this application. If you already have a formatted CV, please ensure that your existing CV contains as much of the relevant and applicable information listed in the template as possible. Your CV will be reviewed by U.S. host institution faculty and administrators, therefore attention to details and formatting is necessary.

IV. RECOMMENDATIONS

Two (2) recommendations are required for your complete application. One recommendation MUST be from your direct supervisor at the university where you work, indicating that he or she supports your endeavor to participate in the JFDP Fellowship. A form is provided in this application for recommenders to complete. The individual form can also be downloaded at the JFDP Web site (www.jfdp.org). In addition to the completed form, a recommendation should include a narrative statement on the recommender's letterhead, if any. Both recommendations must be completed in ENGLISH. If originals are in any language other than English, you must include the originals and English language translations. Besides your direct supervisor, other eligible recommenders include colleagues, advisers, former students, indirect supervisors, and other professionals who are familiar with you and your professional abilities, and who can evaluate your ability to participate in the JFDP. Family members or relatives are not eligible to write letters of recommendation. Those who provide recommendations should include their complete work contact information (address, telephone numbers, and e-mail address). Please be sure to ask your recommender to write a narrative statement which speaks to your unique strengths as an educator, professional and potential leader within higher education. Recommendations that only discuss personal characteristics are not adequate.

Application documents do not need to be notarized. Translations must be clearly marked, "TRANSLATION." The original recommendation forms must have original signatures. It is the responsibility of the applicant to notify recommenders that confidentiality of the forms cannot be assured if the applicant intends to translate the letters himself/herself.

29. Essay Questions. Please answer each question below thoroughly regarding your intent to participate in the Junior Faculty Development Program. Your answers will be read by the selection committee members and, if you are selected, by the U.S. colleges and universities that will consider hosting you. U.S. host institution placements are determined based on an applicant's responses to the Statement of Purpose questions. Please provide two versions of the Statement of Purpose, one in English and a translation in your native language. Both versions of your Statement of Purpose (English and native language) should be typed, single-spaced, and using an 11- or 12-point font. Each version should comprise at least 500 words and not exceed three (3) pages in length (not including this page). Please see Part B, Section II of the application instructions, for additional information about the requirements for the Statement of Purpose. Please consider the goals of the JFDP as you write your Statement of Purpose.

- Please describe your short- and long-term professional goals (in order of priority). In what ways do you anticipate that your experience in the U.S. will help you achieve these goals? Please be sure to include a detailed description of your specific goals for new and/or existing course development.
 - If applicable: If the faculty where you work has designated certain goals for you to accomplish during the JFDP, please describe those goals in detail as well.
- Please list and describe the primary and secondary academic field area(s) that you want to study in the U.S. Please be as specific as possible and list them in order of importance. This information will be used to place you at an appropriate U.S. host institution.
 - If applicable: If you are applying to a field other than the field in which you teach, please address the reason for applying to a field other than your own. It is important to understand that adequate justification and proof of your preparedness to undertake academic training in a related subject area is required in order to be eligible for applying to a different academic field. Otherwise, your application will be considered ineligible.
- What opportunities do you have in your current position to be an educational leader? Describe any leadership experiences you have had in your field. Have you had any experiences in implementing change at your institution? Please describe.
- Describe an experience you had in trying a new teaching method or curricular component in your classroom (or, for a librarian or other type of university administrator, a process or procedure which aimed at improving the teaching and learning environment), your successes (or failures) in implementing it, and the students' reaction to it (and/or the staff and faculty members' reaction to it).
- What is unique about you? Please share additional information with the Selection Committee and your future U.S. host institution, which is not apparent from other information in your application. Why are you a strong candidate for JFDP, and what distinctive characteristics, talents, skills, or knowledge will you bring to your U.S. host community?

To The Applicant: After supplying the information indicated above, give this document to an eligible recommender. An eligible recommender includes colleagues, advisors, supervisors, former students, and other professionals who are familiar with your professional abilities. One recommendation must be from your direct supervisor.

To The Evaluator: The above named individual is applying for the 2013 Junior Faculty Development Program fellowship. The primary and distinct goal of the JFDP is to provide university instructors with opportunities to engage in curriculum development and explore alternative teaching methodologies, expand their knowledge in their fields of study and gather new teaching materials and resources. Participants in JFDP are also encouraged to forge relationships with U.S. host institutions and their home universities in order to support ongoing contact and collaboration. Throughout their stay in the United States, JFDP Fellows observe courses, attend academic conferences, and work closely with faculty mentors from U.S. host institutions to outline new courses and may be invited to present a lecture or co-teach classes at a U.S. host institution. Fellows will also serve as cultural resources, sharing information about their home countries with U.S. faculty, students, and community members. Fellows do not earn academic degrees through the JFDP, and must return to their home countries after completing the program.
